

Wood heating

Wood burning contributes significantly to air pollution. Check with your council on local air quality controls and whether wood heating is permissible in your area. Domestic solid fuel heaters such as wood heaters need to be installed in accordance with the Local Government Act, the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act, the Building Code of Australia and Australian Standard AS/NZS 2918.

Contact your council for further information, and also visit <http://www.environment.nsw.gov.au/woodsmoke/index.htm>

Print